West Kenya Sugar Company Limited (WKSCL) constructed a modern primary school, for approximately 850 children, from the ground up in honour of the Group's founder, the late Mr. Tarlochan Singh Rai.

The school boasts of brand new classrooms, ranging from early years to Class 8, with two separate classes per year group. The school contains new furniture, exercise books and stationery for both teachers and pupils, a library and a state-of-the-art Computer Lab.

WKSCL also sank a borehole into the school compound as well as fitting a hand pump, which will see both the school and the local community access clean water for domestic use.

The sugar company developed a very substantial playground for the children as well as buying school playing kits for the individual team sports.

The school has also been provided with brand new toilets for both the pupils and the staff.

Wednesday provided a thoroughly enjoyable day for both parents and students attending the opening ceremony for St. Pauls Olepito Primary School, based in Busia County, alongside the locals within the community.

Present at the function were Busia County Governor and management of WKSCL
