ATIAK SUGAR PROJEC T

Supporting Post-Conflict Stability through Development.

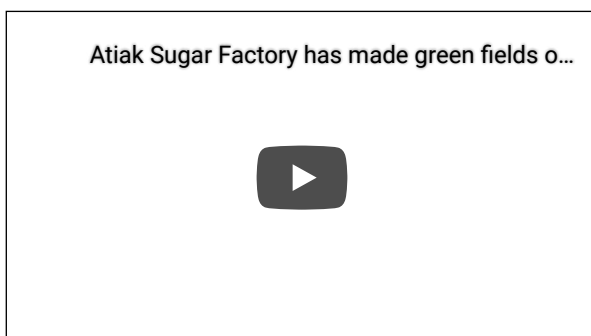

Communities control millions of additional acres and will be able to use revenue from the Atiak Sugar Project to diversify their crops and expand cultivation. In the sub region, there are around 200 acres of cultivatable land for each person. One local community of 5,000 people alone has 3.2 million acres, underscoring the scale of opportunity for building off our current project.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Supporting the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

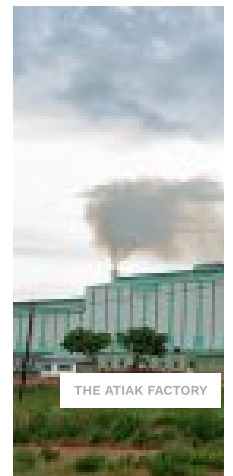

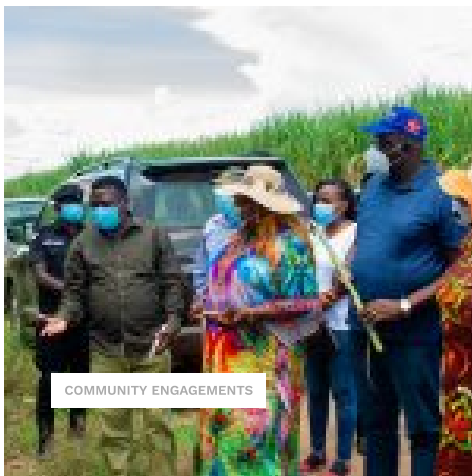

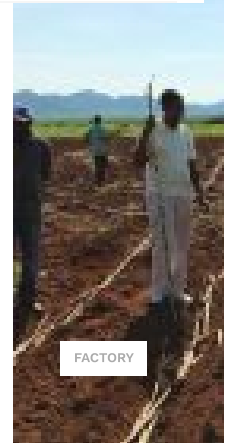

The program is located in a previously war-affected area of Atiak in Amuru and supports employment and community-owned land-use. We have built basic infrastructure and are helping transition communities from subsistence to commercial farming. We work closely with the United Nations, and the program support multiple UN Sustainable Development Goals.
