Vineyards

At Chateau Mukhrani everything starts in our Estate vineyard parcel, every row is looked after closely. We have a strict plan whereas the density of vines never exceeds 2,700 vine stocks. Thus, our grapes fully benefit from our fertile soil, from the rays to get the perfect growth conditions.

Today, the Company owns 100 hectares of vineyards planted with endemic and international varieties and the Winery which is equipped with modern winemaking equipment. The vineyards occupy 100 hectares adjacent to the Chateau itself. Famous Mukhrani vineyard varieties have been cultivated for centuries. Famous Mukhrani vineyard varieties have been planted with different varieties of a moderate sun.

Reds - Saperavi, Shavkapito, Tavkveri.

Whites – Goruli Mtsvane, Rkatsiteli

The specific geological and climatic features of this ancient soil coupled with a skillful and patient selection of the varieties create a unique combination for creating wines of exceptional taste.

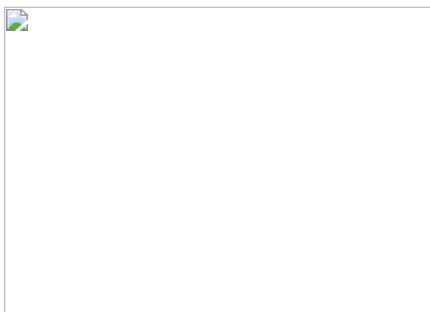

An Exceptional Terroir

Mukhrani ("decorated with oak trees") is one of the most beautiful Georgian villages, set in one of the most attractive areas of East Georgia, on the strip of low-land between the Caucasus and Trialeti mountain ranges in the basin of Ksani and its rivers, 35 km from Tbilisi. The vineyards of the Chateau are located on the best selected plots of this exquisite soil. Due to its wavy surface, slopes slightly.

Geologically the parcels of land are made up of layers of alluvial and diluvial loamy strata. With regard to temperature it is characterized by medium to hot summers and by a long active growing period. The total of active temperature year range is 3600 °C, while the average annual temperature is 10,8 °C. The annual amount of rainfall in Mukhrani is 660 mm and 430 mm during the period of growth. This harmony of nature, tradition and man gives a strong structure to the Mukhrani wines.

The Style of Mukhrani Wines

Like a great creator, and as incomparable and different, Mukhrani composes its masterpieces to which soil, climate and their incomparable style. Young Mukhrani wines are already wonderful for their robust structure and the intensity of their flavors, yet they continue to evolve constantly.

Patrick Honnet is looking after the Viticulture and Winemaking at Chateau Mukhrani. With experience in the classified growths of Bordeaux, our winemaker identifies the grape quality from different climate conditions and selects the most suitable processing methods to grow the highest quality of grapes.

"Each step of the process has its own strict rules. We check the wine quality from the roots of our vines to the glass of our cups."

The Chateau Mukhrani vintages indicate an ancestral heritage, the combined values of heart and soul. By a strict, selective and the use of well-tested traditional vinification methods, patiently elaborated to a final taste profile, revealing their uniqueness. Twelve to eighteen months maturation in oak casks gives our Mukhrani wines an extra harmony.

Chateau Mukhrani varieties celebrate exceptional closeness to Georgian traditions as well as combining with World known major varieties.
