Citizens dissatisfied gathered in front of the city assembly in Loznica because the councilors will probably adopt a spatial plan, which, according to Mariana Petković from the initiative "We will not give Jadar", the company Rio Tinto, which wants to build a jadarite mine in that area, will be registered in the city plan, which, as he states, is "the beginning of all later permits on the basis of which he will ask for a building permit for all the plants in Nedeljice that he is planning".

"We are satisfied with the number of citizens who came from abroad, but we are not satisfied with the number of citizens of Loznica who are not here today, thinking that this story does not concern them. Jadar is a problem of the whole of Serbia, but the people of Loznica, Mali Zvornik, Ljubovije and Krupanj are the biggest, and those are the cities and municipalities that were sacrificed, only the people were not told that," Petkovic said, adding that he hoped councilors would say I can't vote for that. "

"It's a poison ivy, come to Nedeljica, everyone, to see what the research they tried to hide looks like." They came in 2004, never as human beings have answered three key things: what about noise, water, what is the minimum amount of pollution? None of what they promise can be fulfilled. One well has been leaking for five years, and every year a fee is paid for spilling into the fields and damaging the crops, because it is possible that it cannot be repaired. "Now they have proved in the request for the study that the well has the largest arsenic outflow in the study," she points out.

When asked what she thinks there will be a referendum on that issue, she decisively says "We don't want a referendum!"

"This is all bribed, do you know that Rio Tinto gives vouchers to people who are thinking of selling their fields, giving them three thousand euros in an agricultural pharmacy." Rio Tinto can buy the whole of Serbia, so one referendum could not. And we on the field know best how Rio Tinto works. That is why the state is in Jadara, and not to leave the people completely alone", she states and points out that "everything related to Rio Tinto is megalomaniac".

The protest was joined by the civic platform "Action", whose president Nebojsa Zelenovic, when asked if it was a politicization of the protest, said that it was "not a matter of politicization, but it is a key political issue to which we do not receive any answers."

"You used to have six or seven organizations here, now you have two or three, and in a couple of months there will be only one and it will have a very clear goal - how to save our water, our country and our future, and we are all fighting for that. Nobody here politicized the gathering, everyone came to express dissatisfaction with this absurd spatial plan which is adopted in storms, in silence, they wanted to push through the small door, through the Assembly of Loznica, for the body that does not have the authority to adopt a spatial plan and formally take responsibility for making such an important decision. The spatial plan states that there will be a mine, that it will have an area of 860 hectares, it says that 2,000 hectares will be occupied, the plan maker wrote in the same spatial plan that there is a great danger to the ecology and environment of this whole area. Zelenovic.

He adds, "We are standing here on the largest underground water intake, together with Macva, in Southeast Europe, but not just any water, but clean drinking water."

When asked what he thinks will be a referendum, he emphasizes that the spatial plan says that a large area will be devastated and that he will not be able to recover for the next 80 years. "What are we going to do, move out?" Zelenović asks.

"There was no referendum, we need to protect the state from being captured by total dilettantes and ignoramuses, who do not even know how to read the spatial plan," says Zelenović.

According to the H1 reporter, the citizens announce that they will make a ring around the Assembly building with their bodies, so that the councilors would not be able to leave it after the session.

Compared to the morning when there were several hundred citizens, a much smaller number of them are currently gathered - only a hundred, according to the H1 reporter.

When asked why she opposes the Rio Tinto project, one citizen said that she opposes "pollution of water, air, land, everything".

"People 200 kilometers in a circle will live in the worst possible conditions. "In 10 years, they will see what will happen," she said, visibly upset.

Another citizen, who came from Belgrade, said that she was "disappointed that there are so few people".

I also came from Belgrade, at the bus station they canceled the bus that was supposed to leave at five in the morning, so I came at seven at... I can't imagine the people here being silent, sitting in cafes, no one is resisting that what is happening here, I know more about what is happening here than the people of Loznica. Young people have never heard of Rio Tinto, I just talked to a guy - he has no idea, and he lives not far from here. So is that possible", says the citizen.

A man who is also participating in the protest says that he is from Loznica, although he no longer lives there, but that his mother also died of cancer at the age of 65, as well as his father-in-law.

"I think that Loznica has paid a sufficient price for pollution and development, to the detriment of the health of its citizens, and that it is time to stop that," he points out.

The Loznica Assembly is still debating the spatial plan - whether it is a step forward for Loznica or a path to ecological catastrophe. It was announced that the members of the SNS and SPS will vote for the spatial plan, while the members of the opposition will vote against.

The citizens are watching the session live in front of the Assembly and are violently protesting at every address of the councilors from the ruling majority.

When asked what their next steps are, Zlatko Kokanović from "Ne damo Jadara" says that he will take radical measures, "no machine will be able to enter our fields". Asked about the referendum, he said it was not an option for them.

"No one can decide the fate of my children, my family and me. It is known how the SNS machinery votes, it is political politeness, as all previous elections were rigged, so it will be with the referendum", he says and adds that having in mind that the area for the future mine is agricultural land

Bloomberg announced that Rio Tinto has allocated 2.4 billion arrivals for the construction of the jadarite mine near Loznica. Authorities see it as economic prosperity, while citizens and activists see it as an environmental disaster. They don't trust Rio Tinto (https://baseoftheplanet.com/rio-tinto) other countries, so they don't believe it when the company tells them that the impact on the environment will be minimal, and that enough funds will be invested to avoid an environmental catastrophe.
