

EMPOWERING AGRICULTURE

BHO is an agribusiness helping address the world's demand for food security and green energy

What we do

BHO is a company with its roots in India driven by a team of scientists carrying with them years of practical expertise in farming oil crops and pulses. Establishing long term relationships with African countries, we are now delivering farming projects, scaleable through mechanisation.

more →

Where we are

We at BHO have identified Africa as currently one of the most exciting areas globally with the potential for rapid growth. Having witnessed, firsthand, India's transformation over the last 15 years, we are now experiencing many African countries also demonstrate the same, rapid leaps forward.

New Adventures

Finalised in May 2010, we are proud to announce an agreement for 100,000 hectares of land in East Africa, granted to our sister concern at the federal level by the country's Ministry of Agriculture. Thus far, we have taken 27,000 hectares into our possession.

The Environment

We recognise the attention that such large projects often attract and view it as an opportunity to separate us from others through our actions. The scale and financial strength of such projects make possible strong CSR programs for both the environment and communities with which we work.

Email: info@bhoglobal.co.uk

Designed by Close Up Media