

Local Administration and Local Leaders, (3) Local Leaders and Local Communities, as a requisite for any investor in Cameroon in Agriculture to always keep in mind the provisions of the Forest law, the Fauna Law, the Environmental Law, the Land Use Planning; as well as the Constitution provisions on the rights of minorities and individuals and the right of the State to achieve individuals and National Development.

Finally and according to the Environmental Code; no development scheme can take place without conducting an ESHIA and implementing bindings resolutions from public hearings to maintain sustainable development in the area and protect Environment.

We have done a consultation process and shortlisted a renowned firm to do the ESHIA which shall commence upon Biopalm completing the demarcation of land in the allocated area of 21,552 ha.

Sincerely;
