Wadi Halfa

A vast tract of land comprising more than 400,000-hectares in northern Sudan, west of Wadi Halfa, due to be developed for national food security purposes.

DAL Agriculture is exploring the possibility of localising wheat production irrigated from the renewable Nubian sandstone aquifer. Current activities include land feasibility studies including soil testing and analysis, water availability and sustainability, and overall feasibility of the project.

News

Dessi opens up new markets for Sudanese alfalfa

DAL Agriculture’s alfalfa, branded Dessi, is opening up new market [...] Read More >>

Al Waha welcomes new farm manager

Today Abdelgaffar Abdelmageed joined the DAL Agriculture management [...] Read More >>