The Company History page lists out the major events in chronological order for McLeod Russel (India) Ltd.

Company History - McLeod Russel (India) Ltd.

McLeod Russel has been growing tea in India since 1869. We are today the largest tea producing company in the world.

We manage 47 tea estates in the Assam Valley and 6 tea estates in the Dooars region of West Bengal.

Every year our estates produce over 80 million kilograms of black tea, which is marketed worldwide under the registered Elephant trade mark.

1869 - McLeod Russel has been growing tea in India since 1869. In the beginning, Captain J.H. Williamson and Richard Boycott Magor, two Englishmen based in Calcutta, formed a partnership firm, Williamson Magor & Company, to service the requirements of tea gardens in Assam.

1954 - It was renamed as Williamson Magor & Co Limited, with the change in its status to a limited company.

1975 - Williamson Magor merged with another company, Macneill and Barry Ltd. The new company was named Macneill and Magor Limited.

1987 - Guthrie family in the UK sold their shareholding in the McLeod Russel group, which included the Makum and Namdang Tea Companies to the Khaitan family, making the Macneill and Magor group.

1992 - Macneill and Magor Limited was renamed Williamson Magor & Co. Limited.

1994 - The group bought 51% of the equity shareholding of Union Carbide India Limited, through McLeod Russel India Limited, and the company was renamed Eveready Industries India Limited. The new company had two divisions, the bulk tea division which managed the tea estates of McLeod Russel and the battery division which marketed the popular Eveready batteries and flashlights.

1998 - The company was originally incorporated as a private limited company on May 5, 1998.

2000 - IT. became a deemed public limited company on July 6, 2000.
