RINA Agriculture. Planting the seeds of sustainable growth.

With years of experience in the Agriculture field, RINA Group is focused on the delivery of agricultural projects that are implemented with sustainability, social responsibility and green energy in mind. The company at the heart of our operations is DekelOil (under RINA Group Afrique umbrella) in Cote d'Ivoire. DekelOil strives to deliver socially conscious agricultural projects with a view to developing economies and benefiting local trade.

DekelOil's current leading project is the production of crude palm oil in Cote D'Ivoire. This palm oil is used in the food and cosmetic industries, oleochemical industry, petroleum industry, and is also converted into biodiesel; a clean burning alternative fuel. DekelOil is a vertically structured enterprise which effectively manages each project phase involved in palm oil production, from agricultural processes and activities through to production and marketing.

Throughout these phases DekelOil ensures all parties involved in the production of palm oil are treated fairly in order to support and boost local trade and the economy as a whole. As a result of their commitment DekelOil expects to produce 70,000 tons of crude palm oil each year.

Shaping the Future of Agriculture

Many companies across the world are playing a part in meeting global demand in a way that is sustainable and which is continuing to shape agriculture. RINA's philosophy is to deliver our business goals whilst conserving resources, using greener technologies and improving lives and landscapes. We recognise that corporate responsibility and sustainability are not solely about our products and the opportunities they create, but also about how we continue to manage our operations and interact with local communities. As a result we continue to stay abreast of the latest 'green' developments and review our processes and procedures accordingly.
