Type informations

A private company must have at least one member. A profit company that is not state-owned, its Memorandum of Incorporation must prohibit it from offering any of its securities to the public and restrict the transferability of its securities.

The 2008 Act initially proposed retaining the "(Pty) Ltd" designation from the 1973 Act. The first Amendment Bill deleted the "Ltd," and the second reinstated it, so that the name of a private company still ends with "(Pty) Ltd."
