

VRB to Start Exploit Rubber in Cambodia This Year

Vietnam Rubber Group (VGR) will begin to exploit a number of rubber plantation areas in Cambodia in 2014, Vietnamplus.vn reported, citing Tran Ngoc Thuan, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of VGR as saying.

VRG will also grow an addition of 11,220 hectares of rubber plantation in Cambodia this year, complete its program of developing 100,000 ha of rubber in the neighbor country.

It is projected that, in 2014, Tan Bien - Kampongthom will put 200 hectares of rubber into exploitation; Hoang Anh - Mang Yang K will also start scraping rubber latex at its 50 ha of rubbers.

Hoang Anh - Mang Yang K has built a rubber processing plant, not only just to process its company's harvested rubber but also to process rubber collected from households and other businesses in the region, the local news provider reported.

In addition, other rubber companies such as Tan Bien Hoa Phuoc, Ba Ria, Chu Se - Kampong Thom, Phu Dong, Dong Nai Kratie are also promoting to build their rubber processing plants to prepare for their rubber exploitation in the years of 2015, 2016.

By the end of 2013, VRG had total of 78,622 ha of rubber plantation in Cambodia and 18,958 ha in Laos.

According to VRG, its rubber planting programs in Laos and Cambodia do not only bring economic benefits but also effectiveness in terms of society, defense and security, contributing to tighten friendship cooperation relationship between Vietnam - Laos and Vietnam-Cambodia.

In its investment program in Cambodia, VRG has spent a fund worth $ 30 million to develop social infrastructures in the project area such as roads, electricity, water, health service and education facilities...

The projects have contributed to the welfare programs with a total budget of more than $ 2 million, creating over 20,000 jobs with stable incomes for local workers.
